

RESOLUTION

Contract Negotiations

Rutgers University Senate
October 2018

Recognizing that there are thousands of Rutgers faculty and employees currently working under expired contracts; and that the current lack of progress in contract negotiations jeopardizes the retention of high-quality faculty, and staff at Rutgers as well as the effectiveness of the educational process; the Rutgers University Senate therefore calls upon the administration to add more energy, resources and commitment to union contract negotiations to affect fair, just, and timely settlements.
