Good morning, Anna,

The charge of the joint committee is to explore, among other things, additional ways to support and educate students, faculty, and staff regarding immigration enforcement on or near campus. The scope will likely be refined further as the conversations with this group get underway. Building on our conversation with Professor Fine, as well as ongoing discussions between the Office of General Counsel and the People Power Coalition, a new, centralized website has been developed to serve as a single source of information and resources. At our first meeting, we will review the website and solicit feedback from committee members to inform any further refinements to the website.

The committee will be comprised of representatives from appropriate administrative offices across the CLUs, the Office of General Counsel, Rutgers Global, University Facilities, Public Safety, Rutgers Immigrant Community Assistance Project (RICAP), People Power Coalition, and University Senate.

Best,

Ralph

Ralph, good morning and thank you for this great news - we are pleased to hear this initiative is moving forward, and to receive this offer. It would be very helpful, as we engage Senator Fine and other Senators who have been actively organizing around these concerns, to get more information about the intended charge and purview of the committee and the planned additional committee membership.

Best,

Anna

Subject: Joint Committee Invitation

Good evening,

As I mentioned to Senator Haley earlier this week, the University will be convening a joint committee to explore, among other things, additional ways to support and educate students, faculty, and staff regarding immigration enforcement on or near campus.

The University would like to invite the Senate to nominate three representatives to serve on the committee: one faculty member, one staff member, and one student. If the Senate is interested in participating, please share the names and contact information for the individuals selected.

All my best,

Ralph
